INTRODUCTION

A long-term internship is a training program in which a student or fresher works with an organization for an extended period, usually several months. It helps the intern gain practical knowledge, industry exposure, and real work experience in a specific field. During the internship, the intern learns professional skills, understands workplace culture, and applies academic knowledge to real projects. A long-term internship is useful for career growth because it improves communication, technical skills, confidence, and job readiness.

IMPLEMENTATION

- ❖ The mentor should be a faculty member. Incentive could be given to the faculty mentors in terms of Academic Performance Indicators (API) scores. Or could even be made a compulsory in the service conditions laid down at the time of appointment.
- ❖ Implementation is the stage where the planned system or project is actually developed and put into use. In this stage, the design is converted into a real working system.
- ❖ The log book has to be countersigned by the concerned mentor/faculty incharge.
- ❖ Evaluation to be done based on the active participation of the student and grade could be awarded by the mentor/faculty member.
- ❖ The final evaluation to be reflected in the grade memo of the student.

- ❖ Minor project report should be submitted by each student. An internal Viva shall also be conducted by a committee constituted by the principal of the college.
